From the Executive Director

Karen Szteinberg, Executive Director

A close family friend was recently faced with a dilemma. For over two decades, Bea has lived in a beautiful home with family photos hanging on her walls and nostalgic chachkas on her shelves. Her home holds heartfelt memories of grandchildren opening Chanukah gifts in her den, of Passover seders and birthday celebrations, and of her husband in his last few days as they laughed and cried of their life together. Yet while her home is filled with knickknacks of a life full of love, her house has become more and more a burden requiring constant repairs and a reminder that living alone has become increasingly difficult.

Bea is a vibrant woman in her 80s and often thinks of her 94-year-old sister who chooses to live on her own with a son nearby and different aides; she mostly stays at home. This is not how Bea wants to live; she wants to continue her active life without being dependent. Thus she has decided to move to a senior independent living community with a carefree lifestyle, activities down the hall, dinner ready without any fuss, a minimal need to drive, and the comfort of friends new and old always nearby.

Starting a new stage may be exciting, but it often follows the agony of ending the current one. Packing up photo albums and mementos. Discarding sentimental items no longer needed. Giving away the dining room set which held more memories than perhaps place settings, or the heirloom chinaware unvalued by your children. And the worse, Bea said, was removing hundreds of history books that her husband treasured, something she cherished so dear as each book represented their own history together. Sorting, wrapping, boxing, crying, laughing, exhaustion... an emotional rollercoaster.

We all experience new stages in our lives. Childhood, parenthood, professional life, retirement, marriage, divorce/loss of spouse... there are no manuals for each, there are no universal decisions. All we can do is move forward and try to make our lives better each day.

“Age is a question of mind over matter. If you don’t mind, it doesn’t matter.” This quote has been credited to Mark Twain, Jack Benny, Satchel Paige and many others. Years ago, our elderly feared “old age homes” or “nursing homes” that were usually dismal and depressing with frail, inactive residents. Today we are fortunate to have incredibly nurturing, active and modern communities where even some of our own congregants reside and enjoy.

Our lives are never truly stagnant; physically, intellectually and emotionally we always evolve as does our environment. We don’t know what crossroads we will face or what blocks we will stumble upon. But the choice to any path is ours, despite the circumstances. The Talmud says, “Act while you can: While you have the chance, the means, and the strength.” Rabbi Noah Weinberg said, “Don’t be afraid of discovering that the ‘real you’ may be different than the ‘current you’.” But how do you know that your decision will make you happy? For Bea, the answer is simple. “It’s because I choose to be. And wherever I go, I will take myself with me.”

BIMAH FLOWERS

Our Sanctuary is stunning and flowers can add to its beauty! Whether in honor of a special occasion or in memory of a loved one, consider sponsoring a floral arrangement for our bimah ($175). You can specify the Erev Shabbat date or consider contributing to the Vineberg Floral Fund for our ongoing floral décor needs. For more information, contact the Office at (561) 833-8421 or tioffice@temple-israel.com

The Torah of Kindness

I write these words to you from Jerusalem, where I have been studying and imbibing the special spiritual and intellectual flavors of the Jewish state. I happen to be writing these words to you on the day after President Biden's arrival in Israel, and I confess that I am overflowing with pride — over the way that President Biden has presented himself here, and the way that Israelis have welcomed him.

And, of course, as you would expect: I have spent a certain amount of time in Jerusalem's fabled book stores.

Which brings me to one of my favorites — a cluttered, dusty store named Stein's.

Which brings me to the story of one of Israel's greatest writers — the late Amos Oz. He was born Amos Klausner, and his father's name was Yehuda Klausner.

In the 1940s, the Klausner family lived in Jerusalem. Mr. Klausner had dreams of becoming a best-selling author of scholarly books. He wanted to be like his friend, Israel Zarchi, whose books always sold out within a few days of their printing.

Yehuda Klausner would privately print his books, and he would take them to Achiasaph's book store on King George Avenue in Jerusalem — which is now Stein's Book Store.

Whenever I shop there, I come across books that are there, left over from the 1940s.

No one bought Mr. Klausner's books.

They just sat there in a pile, as their author became more depressed and more discouraged.

Finally, one day he got a call from the bookstore. All of his books had been sold! There had been an absolute run on his books! So much so, that a bookstore in Tel Aviv had put in an order as well!

Yehuda Klausner was elated, and this launched his modest career in scholarly writing.

A few years later, young Amos Oz was visiting Israel Zarchi in his cluttered apartment (and this scene appears in the movie A Tale of Love and Darkness, starring Natalie Portman as young Amos's mother).

Mr. Zarchi left the living room to get Amos a cup of hot cocoa. While Mr. Zarchi was in the kitchen, Amos Oz was looking around, and he noticed something under the coffee table in the corner of the room.

It was a pile of his father's books.

Israel Zarchi returned to the living room with the cup of cocoa. He saw Amos Oz looking at the pile of his father's books, and he held his index finger to his lips: "Please don't say anything to your father."

You know what had happened.

Israel Zarchi had secretly bought all of Klausner's books.

And because of that, Yehuda Klausner had thought himself to be a minor commercial success, and because of that, he continued writing.

This is what Amos Oz wrote about that incident:

I have many close and dear friends, and yet, I am not sure that I could do for any of them what Israel Zarchi did for my father. Israel Zarchi was poor. He lived hand to mouth. At a certain moment, he must have said to himself, "I can either buy some clothes that I need, or I can buy the three copies of Klausner's book."

And he chose to buy my father's book.

I thought of that story, as I tripped over piles of books at Stein's, née Achiasaph's. I kept one eye open, trying to spot old, yellowed copies of Mr. Klausner's book.

I didn't see them. Perhaps some kind soul had bought them.

But, that is the Torah of kindness. It is what I often encounter in life, and certainly here in Jerusalem.

We're planning for another incredible year so save the below dates and keep your eyes open for even more events soon!

The Mussar Moment

Barry Horowitz, M.D.

I am sure you have heard about all of the problems folks are having with air travel. Well on a recent trip to Europe, we experienced that in spades. On the way to Barcelona, the flight to our connection in Rome was delayed so we had to be re-routed and got in 8 hours late without our luggage which luckily arrived the next day. Coming home, our flight from Lisbon was delayed and then cancelled resulting in an 8 hour stint in the Lisbon airport and coming home the following day with 4 changes in our itinerary in the process and many hours spent on the phone.

Now you may be thinking to yourself: “#firstworldproblems”, which is appropriate. But from a Mussar perspective, life is spiritual curriculum where we are asked to climb the ladder towards holiness and wholeness. We have bumps in that road that come before us where we are then challenged to look within at the Middot or Soul Traits that are evoked in the situation to ultimately make better choices in our reactions. This process will imprint on our souls and balance these traits such that the light of our Neshamas can shine more brightly in the world.

So, for me, this was an exercise in Patience and Gratitude, among other things. It was about recognizing that there are forces in the universe that are beyond our control and while we can and should act, we have to recognize our limitations and let things play out as they may. How we react to a situation is what gets us into trouble with impatience. Sure, the issue may be real. You’re late. You need it now. There will be consequences. But whatever the problem, no matter how great or how small, it is one thing to face those issues just as they are, and quite another to slosh impatience all over the situation. Reactivity like this only increases our burden by adding a whole extra dimension of inner suffering to an already difficult experience. I have heard this distinction used to clarify the difference between pain and suffering. Pain is the sensation caused by a stimulus; suffering comes from our reaction to the pain. It was also about truly embracing the wonderful trip we had and not letting the situations we were in detract from it.

How did I do? Ask my wife when you see her next. I had my moments, but through some calm breathing, walking meditation through the terminal and making sure that I was not hypoglycemic or dehydrated, I got through it better than when I had been in similar past situations. And that’s the point: when we come upon these Bechira Points or challenging moments, we can choose old patterns or harness the spiritual work we have done to do better. Choosing the latter is not only better for us but for those around us as well.

A SPOTLIGHT ON OUR NEWEST ADDITIONS TO OUR TI TEAM

SUZANNE GUINANE – Cantorial Soloist

In her own words:

I'm looking forward to meeting everyone and building sacred community as we continue to embrace the opportunities to reimagine Progressive Reform Judaism while honoring Temple Israel's rich history of Justice, Equity, Diversity and Inclusivity (JEDI). I have always believed music is a universal language that unites and heals. From the joy of toddlers learning their first song, to bringing comfort to mourners at shiva minyanim, to empowering our students to find their voice during T'filah and preparing for B'nei Mitzvah. I embrace praying with the choir and congregation, sharing the magic of chanting Torah and Haftarah with all ages, continuing to build relationships in our community and welcoming opportunities to come together for celebratory events. Sharing culture and building understanding through music is desperately needed in our world, and enables us to sow love, kindness, understanding and healing.

I can't wait to begin working with our choir, learning our student's musical gifts and interests, and exploring innovative and creative opportunities and possibilities. To do the sacred work I am called and loved to do with Rabbi Salkin, Staff and Lay Leadership while living near my mom, family and dear friends is such a blessing. I am looking forward to joining hands and marching together as we Pray, Connect and Thrive.

TAMEKIA GRAHAM – Temple Administrator

Tamekia first started at Temple Israel as our Assistant to Clergy in 2016 and although she left our front office two years ago, her passion for us never left as she continued working on special temple projects and at our Religious School. We are thrilled that she has returned full-time in the role of Temple Administrator. Tamekia has a diverse strong background which enables her to be our ideal administrator: 27 years of business experience including medical admissions, marketing, real estate management and synagogue life; impeccable skills; institutional memory; and an effervescent "can do" attitude. Her most recent position as the Operations and Marketing Manager for a mechanical engineering firm further fostered her interest in property management and her Associate Degree in Psychology and Bachelor's Degree in Business Management is a plus too!

In Tamekia's own words, "I have so many reasons for being back; the first, it just feels like home. I look forward to continuing to build relationships with our congregants, helping them with any life cycle needs, and working closely with my office team to ensure we have a fluid, functioning and professional friendly environment for our congregants and staff." Welcome Back, Tamekia!

KODI LASKIN – Coordinator, “Whole Self” Safe Space for Young Jewish LGBTQ and Allies

Kodi and her wife Nicole joined Temple Israel two years ago and have been active members, attending services and programs, assisting with our A/V system and working with our students. This past March, Kodi became an adult bat mitzvah at Temple Israel and is now preparing to get her Masters in Jewish Education Program Development.

While she is currently a DOT File Coordinator, Kodi comes to us with experience in programming, working with youth and understanding the needs of the LGBTQ population. Previous related positions include program development for the Boca Raton Library and being a youth instructor for both Sport International and South Florida Dynamics. Kodi also enjoyed her earlier internship in the Entertainment Department of Walt Disney World and being a technician on the award-winning Carbonell Show. One of Kodi’s favorite accomplishments was combining her knowledge of iMovie with informational lessons on service animals that transitioned into a book deal with the American Library Association. Technology is her forte and helping others is her strength.

Kodi continues to be active with Compass where she was recently a co-facilitator helping organize programs and leading youth. She has been successful in envisioning and facilitating many programs that benefit our LGBTQ youth and engage our greater community.

In Kodi’s words, “My goal is trying to help them find their dreams and strengths so they can believe in themselves the way I believe in them. Either way they are the future and have unlimited value.”

Our ResTORAH Project

Our goal is to have all members support our efforts; if you have not yet donated, please consider performing a real mitzvah by helping us restore our sacred Torahs. A sofer is currently repairing two of our Torahs. Each sponsor will be honored at our September 11th special celebratory brunch with the opportunity to fill in the final letters with our scribe.

The celebration of our Torahs continues with our Simchat Torah dinner and dancing program on October 17th. Many thanks go to Amy & Jeffrey Devore who are sponsoring the delicious dinner and Nancy & Barry Horowitz who are sponsoring the Klezmer Band.

Please refer to the Simchat Torah flyer in this Koleynu!

If you have not yet sent in your pledge or sponsorship, it's not too late! For more information or to donate, contact Karen Szteinberg at (561) 833-8421 or karen@temple-israel.com by August 12th.

We thank all of our generous ResTORAH sponsors for helping us restore our sacred Torahs.

PLANNING ASSURES THAT YOUR WISHES ARE CARRIED OUT

Temple Israel has a section in the Star of David Cemetery with plots still available for purchase by any Temple Israel Member at $5,000, considerably less than the cost of purchasing them directly from Star of David. Temple Israel also has an affiliation with Eternal Light Memorial Gardens for your consideration and planning.

Advanced funeral arrangements will be comforting for your loved ones during their grieving. For more information, contact Karen Szeinberg at (561) 833-8421 or karen@temple-israel.com.

SOCIAL FRIDAYS! Our Membership Committee is inviting our TI Family to enjoy dinner together at an outdoor restaurant after our Erev Shabbat services. We will be calling our members based on zip codes so you can become better acquainted with others in your own neighborhood. We've already had a few outings filled with plenty of talk, fun and good food, and we will continue to invite members through the summer. So please answer our calls for our "Social Fridays" and enjoy!

MEMORIAL PLAQUES

Remember a loved one by adding a Memorial Plaque in our sanctuary and be a part of a longstanding Jewish tradition. The plaque, which is engraved and mounted for a $500 donation, will be lit on your loved one's yahrzeit each year. To order a plaque, contact the Temple Office.
