Marty List

I am still coming down from the special evening we shared recently – our Shababeque was just amazing! So many of our congregants came to welcome our cantorial soloist, Suzanne Guinane, and our director of education, Scott London, and to welcome back our musician extraordinaire, David Block, as well as to meet the many visitors who came to experience Temple Israel. No one was disappointed – our music and singing were uplifting, our Shabbat service was inspirational, our visitors were impressed and, of course, our BBQ dinner was fulfilling (special thanks to Barry Horowitz as well as Brotherhood and Sisterhood). The consensus from this particular Friday night says we should hold Shabbat services with a congregational dinner every month. We will endeavor to make that happen and I know even more of you will join us!

As we turn our attention to the month of Elul and our preparations for the High Holy Days, I ask you to take stock of what is most important to you – family, friends, your health, our community? We all need to look for the blessings in our lives and, hopefully, find ways to increase those blessings. This is our annual reset button.

I am looking forward to experiencing the richness of Rosh Hashanah and the awe of Yom Kippur in a new way, knowing that Rabbi Salkin and Suzanne Guinane will bring spirituality, inspiration and beauty to our religious experiences.

I am thankful to both of them – and I am thankful to all of you, the heart and soul of Temple Israel. May each of you find your blessings!

L'Shanah Tovah

From the Rabbi

Rabbi Jeffrey Salkin

Loneliness Is The Other Pandemic

To quote the Beatles in “Eleanor Rigby”: “Father McKenzie, writing the words to a sermon that no one will hear. No one comes near.”

I understand Father McKenzie. Though I have written words to sermons that some (or many) will hear, I also know the answer to the question posed in the chorus: “All the lonely people — where do they all come from?”

So, let me put this out there for you.

There is alone — and there is lonely.

There is nothing wrong with — and many things right with — being alone. Hitbodedut, solitude, is a necessary component of the Jewish spiritual life. Our great biblical heroes did “alone” pretty well — Jacob, left on his own to wrestle with a nameless stranger; Moses, standing alone before the burning bush; Elijah, alone in the midst of idolatry; God, alone in the heavens.

Come to think of it: Many great spiritual heroes, across religious traditions, spent significant time alone. Yes, Moses — and also Jesus, the desert monks, Buddha.

I have often meditated upon these words of the Hebrew poet Zalman Shneur:

It is good for a person to be once on their own.
No book, no friend, no community, not a soul,
Just that person with the heart all alone,
It is good for a person to be once on his own.
And it’s good to leave behind all that was found,
No house, no field, not required, not bound,
Just listen to one’s heart and be deaf to all that’s around,
It is good to leave behind all we have found.
Listen to your heart — in your life you will know
You’ll know what there is and feel what you owe.

So, alone — good.

But that is not the same as being lonely.

The state of being alone can bring spiritual life; the state of being lonely can bring spiritual death.

The first thing that God creates that is not “good” is loneliness — existential and physical solitude. “It is not good for man (human beings) to be alone.”

In his book Lost Connections, the British-Swiss writer Johann Hari writes about medical studies that compare the fates of those who are connected to others, and those who are lonely.

Another scientist, Lisa Berkman, had followed both isolated and highly connected people over nine years, to see whether one group was more likely to die than the other. She discovered that isolated people were two to three times more likely to die during that period. Almost everything became more fatal when you were alone: cancer, heart disease, respiratory problems.

What is the cure for loneliness?

It is not only that we spend time with each other — as much as the current state of COVID will allow.

It is that we spend time within each other — and within something that is larger than us.

What is that “thing” that is larger than us?

A narrative. A story. A story that started before you got here, and a story that will exist after you are here — and the knowledge that your life has a role in that unfolding story.

In the coming weeks, many of us will re-enter our sanctuary. For some of us, it will be the first time in a long time.

When we reenter our sanctuary, we are not only reentering a physical space. We are reentering the story of the Jewish people. Our sense of belonging is not just about belonging to this nation, the Jewish people, but belonging with this nation, the Jewish people.

So, yes — welcome back into the sanctuary. Welcome your old friends again. But know that in so doing, you are bearing witness to the resiliency of the Jewish people, of its institutions — and yes, of its story.

I cannot wait to see you all again. And so, my early wishes for a shanah tovah u'metukah – a good and sweet year.

From the Executive Director

Karen Szteinberg

The High Holy Days are a period of reflection, introspection and meditation. Throughout the year, we experience life and react; we make choices – some with excitement, some with hesitation, some with repercussions – and hopefully we learn from our conduct, relationships and encounters. But while we solemnly daven at the High Holy Days, practice teshuvah and ask others for forgiveness, we often forget to forgive and help ourselves; we forget that the self-care of our mind, body and spirit is essential every day.

Synagogue work before the High Holy Days is hectic. RSVPs for tickets, honors, flowers, book dedications, break-the-fast, the food drive... Selichot, Sukkot, Shababeque and the Scribe... flyers, ads, eblasts... the logistics of barricades, a one-way street permit, security, ordering apples and honey... creating flyers, marketing and ads... It's exhausting. This year our staff took on additional responsibilities of former staff and volunteers, and we are now acclimating new ones. It is surely a busy time but we have not faltered or complained; we work hard out of love and respect for our congregation and synagogue.

But there are costs to extending oneself, despite the satisfaction we get in our efforts. We need to stop, breathe and take care of ourselves for if we don't, we may not be of much use to others. As a workaholic, this is a difficult task for me but nonetheless a much-needed resolution. This year I aim to thread self-care in the busy tapestry of my life. Doing so will allow me to continue performing acts of G'milut Chasadim, warmly blanketing others with love and care. I hope you join me on this journey and take care of yourselves too.

Shanah Tovah Um'Tukah. May you have a good and sweet new year.

SELICHOT – Worship, Program & Cheesecake Saturday, September 17th at 7:30pm

Don't forget to join us for Selichot! Participate in our havdallah service, help change the torah covers, enjoy Rabbi Salkin's program "Opening the Gates of the Hearts" and indulge with an assortment of cheesecake sponsored by Judy & Alan Shuster. RSVP by September 12th. Check out our flyer in this Koleynu!

WOMEN IN THE RABBINATE – Sunday, November 6th at 2pm

In coordination with the TI Sisterhood, our very own Sharon Hotchkiss will present a program on the history of female rabbis including videos, a discussion and refreshments. Learn about Regina Jonas, the first female ordained rabbi (pictured left), as well as those who followed in her footsteps and their struggles and triumphs. More info will be sent soon or contact Linda Solomon at lwzsolomon@gmail.com or 561-632-7589.

Are you missing your reading glasses, a ring, bracelet or other trinket, or even your comfy wrap for the cooler days? We may have found it! We've collected quite a few items through the years and one of them might be yours. Let us know what you might have misplaced by contacting the Temple office at (561) 833-8421.

When God Created Friends

God looked down upon the earth, and said, "there's something wrong,"
 So he stretched out his mighty hand, and made the Bluebird's song.
 He looked again and noticed, that the world was still not right, and with one wink he added gold, to the morning's early light.
 But things were still unbalanced, until God sat back and grinned.
 The world was finally made complete, when God created friends.

Pamela Joyce Randolph

As we approach the beginning of the year, I find myself in a reflective space of gratitude; and, if you don't mind, I'd like to share a train of thought with you.

In this moment, I am grateful for my health, my able body, my (mostly) clear mind, and the freedom to speak my truths for the benefit of myself and others. I am grateful for the lessons that guide my path through learned experiences. I am grateful for my family, friends, friends who've become family, and for the kindness of strangers along my way.

At first, it was just a statement in passing, "It would be nice to get you back here, I could really use your help". It was nice to hear this, for me, as it said that my presence made a difference in the space that I was in. Truthfully, I have always felt comfortable here at Temple Israel. Over the years, I have developed a fondness for my fellow co-workers regardless of the strife; I have a love for my congregants regardless of the nuances associated with the tasks, and I have a gentle warmth for my students whose faces always make my heart smile. Temple Israel feels like home and I am grateful to be back in the fold.

As we look to Rosh Hashanah, let us all be reminded of the opportunities to start anew. I hope that we can all be inspired to make amends for the sake of having a peaceful heart. I challenge us to do good deeds and give selflessly in the form of time or attention; choose to sit with a stranger or lend a kind word to someone who needs uplifting. During the High Holy Days, I hope you take the time for meditative rest, reflection and, if necessary, repentance on the approach of Yom Kippur. Let us be intentional about how we expiate our sins, sowing our seeds for the purpose of bringing in a fruitful and bountiful harvest, while seeking reconciliation with old friends, ourselves and with God.

Celebrate your birthday and anniversary with your Temple Israel family!

Our TI Worship Committee members will be calling our members to join us at a special erev Shabbat service each month to acknowledge the special day. Our next such services are September 2nd and October 7th. Even if it's not your birthday or anniversary, join us to share the simcha with your friends and family!

INTRODUCING SCOTT LONDON, OUR NEW DIRECTOR OF EDUCATION & YOUTH PROGRAMMING

Scott is excited to have joined our team and to lead us into new programs and activities. He has nearly 20 years of experience as both a formal and informal Jewish educator, as well as 4 years working at a charter school with Kindergarten to 8th graders. Scott has developed curriculum at numerous synagogues to meet the evolving needs and the diverse interests of today's pre-teens and teens. His goal is to make religious school an exciting and interesting time for our youth by providing fun educational experiences and encouraging their aspirations.

Scott grew up in the suburbs of Philadelphia and received a B.A. in Judaic Studies from Temple University. He lives in South Florida with his wife Brooke and their daughter Bari. Scott is so enmeshed in the Jewish world that he and his wife actually met at a Jewish youth group convention and he has visited Israel on five separate occasions including for a 6-month stay.

His position will initially be directing and enhancing our Religious School and youth programs but in a few months, Scott's responsibilities will grow to include the planning and direction of adult programs as well.

Scott is eager to meet everyone at Temple Israel and is excited to be a part of our future. We are thrilled to welcome him to our Temple Israel family!

Religious School First Day

From the Director of Education & Youth Programming

Scott London

Shalom!!

Let me start out by saying how excited I am to be here at Temple Israel. As the Director of Education and Youth Programming, there are a lot of great events on the calendar. Additionally, we will be adding in some new fun, camp-like ways of learning. We will be incorporating shira (music) into the curriculum even more than before. Make sure you are ready to sing and share the songs from your camp with us.

These first few weeks have been quite a ride as I'm starting to familiarize myself with our students and learn who they are and what interests them. As most school years begin, we will continue to discuss and learn about Rosh Hashanah and why we eat apples dipped in honey. We have also had opportunities to delve into our ResTORAH project. If you have never seen how a Torah is written by a scribe, it is an amazing sight to see. The amount of time and detail that a scribe puts into each letter with the risk of making a mistake sends shivers down my spine. I hope everyone has taken part of this very rare occasion.

October will allow us to ask for forgiveness as we read a story called "The Hardest Word" while we prepare for Yom Kippur. We will make an agreement to try our best. We will end the month of October with a celebration for Simchat Torah with a band and dinner. It's always a blast to show our love for the Torah.

At the end of October, our religious school students will be part of a community-wide event held at the Palm Beach Zoo sponsored by the Jewish Federation of Palm Beach. Many of the other area temples and synagogues will participate as well. Our TI students and their families will partake in a scavenger hunt around the zoo, answering questions about Judaism and animals.

We are only barely into the school year and there are so many wonderful opportunities to learn together. As we get closer, I am excited to be a part of our "Night of 100 Menorahs" and I always find it meaningful to discuss and learn about Yom HaZikaron.

Please make sure you come along with us for the ride this year. It will be a fun and educational one for all!

SCHOOL'S BACK!

It was so nice to see our youth back for their first day of religious school, and we have some new families too! Director Scott London, Rabbi Jeffrey Salkin and Cantorial Soloist Suzanne Guinane will instruct our older grades while also working with our younger students who will be primarily taught by our beloved "Ms. Maggie" Kaufman. Our madrichim are incredible as they help out and mentor our students, a testament to how much they love our temple and school.

We thank our families for entrusting their children to us and also thank our Brotherhood who sponsored our annual "back to school" breakfast. We're off to a great start!

The Mussar Moment

Rabbi Emeritus Howard Shapiro

If you read my blog, rabbiunplugged.com, then you know that when I am in North Carolina during the summer, I do a lot of walking. One of my routes takes me by an outdoor chapel that operates every Sunday morning at 11:00 from Memorial Day to Labor Day. The Board of the Chapel invites preachers to come and conduct the services and give a sermon. The Ministers mostly come from Greenville and Spartanburg, SC as well as the area around Cedar Mountain, NC. They tend to be Baptists or Episcopalians. I sometimes time my walks to try and catch a piece of the sermon.

One Sunday this summer, I decided to sit and listen to the whole sermon. The Pastor was talking about what Jesus did on Wednesday of Holy Week. (The week before Easter – when according to the Christian Scriptures, events were building up for the crucifixion and reported resurrection.) The Pastor said that Wednesday of that week is often known as Silent Wednesday because there is no report of him saying anything. She (the Pastor) believed that Jesus spent the day communing with God steeling himself for what was to come.

The Pastor then pivoted to us and our lives and how silence is not only a virtue but a great tool to learn about yourself. I wondered if she knew anything about Mussar. Silence is one of the Middot – character traits that we are invited to engage with. In the Mussar tradition, silence is both the pause you take before responding to a comment made by someone directed at you and the active listening you do when you and someone else are involved in meaningful conversation.

Too often we are so absorbed in what we should say next that we stop listening with our hearts. The silence we need then is the silence in which we still our inner voice so that we can hear the voice of the other. And silence is the tool many utilize when they want to either meditate or pray. Pirkei Avot records that Shimon used to say: “all my days I grew up among the sages, and I have found nothing better for a person than silence. Study is not the most important thing, but actions; whoever indulges in too many words brings about sin.”

It is often an act of strength to be silent. It is a mechanism to discover the self/soul/God within. It is an opportunity to retool and renew and respond to the world with that which is truly the most holy – You.

SOCIAL ACTION IS ALL OF OUR RESPONSIBILITY!

Our Social Action Committee and Rabbi Salkin always endeavor to help our greater community. They are currently partnering with “Repair The Sea”, an organization that “shares the spiritual wonders of water from a Jewish perspective, and to raise awareness of, and encourage action to address the many threats facing the aquatic environment.”

This year we are joining Repair The Sea for a Reverse Tashlich, an International Jewish Community waterfront cleanup, on Sunday, October 2nd. More information can be found at repairthesea.org/rt2022 or by contacting Jane Herring, Social Action Chair, at jhc48@yahoo.com.

MEMORIAL PLAQUES

Remember a loved one by adding a Memorial Plaque in our sanctuary and be a part of a longstanding Jewish tradition. The plaque, which is engraved and mounted for a $500 donation, will be lit on your loved one's yahrzeit each year. To order a plaque, contact the Temple Office.

PLANNING ASSURES THAT YOUR WISHES ARE CARRIED OUT

Temple Israel has a section in the Star of David Cemetery with plots still available for purchase by Temple Israel Members at $5,000, considerably less than the cost of purchasing them directly from Star of David. Temple Israel also has an affiliation with Eternal Light Memorial Gardens for your consideration and planning.

Advanced funeral arrangements will be comforting for your loved ones during their grieving. For more information, contact Karen Szteinberg at (561) 833-8421 or karen@temple-israel.com.

REFORM JUDAISM: WHAT'S IN IT FOR YOU?

Adult Education Series

A significant percentage of American Jews identify as Reform. But what does that mean? Is Reform "Judaism lite?" How has Reform Judaism evolved, and how are you part of its dynamic history?

Join Rabbi Salkin for a sweeping view of Reform Judaism – why we do what we do, and say what we say, and believe what we believe.

This course is aimed at those who are curious about Reform Judaism, as well as "old timers" who want to learn more.
